MAKING THE STANDS SECURE.

ARRANGEMENTS TO CONVEY THE MULTITUDE

ON THE ELEVATED ROAD?. "A feature of the parade on Monday will be the band of the New-York Juvenile Asylum, in its neat uniform, marching at the head of the Columbia College boys," said Frederick W. Devoe, an officer of the boys," said Frederick W. Devoe, an officer of the asylum, to a Tribune reporter yesterday. "Our band," continued Mr. Devoe, "is composed of twenty-five youngsters, whose ages range from twelve to affect youngsters, whose ages range from twelve to a fifteen years. As none of them are in the institution for more than two years, the showing they make in public is remarkable. The boys are, of course, nighly pleased to be assigned to such a prominent place in the line of march, and will do their best. The semi-annual reception will be held at the asylum on Friday afternoon, October 21, when over 1,000 children will sing and recite for the entertainment of a large number of their friends. The health of the inmates of the institution, during the last two months, has beaten its best record. With an average attendance of 1,050 children, including 200 girls, there was no slekness in August, and not a single name on the hospital list during September."

As a part of the inaugural cerementes a sacred orchestral society, under the leadership of Professor F. Greco, will play classical music and will be assisted by Andres Anton and by Mile. Amelia Sarti, the violinist. A short lecture on the "Life of Columbus," by Dr. L. Roversi, will follow. Baron de Fava, the Italian Minister at Washington, Earoness Fava, Prince Ruspoli. Secretary of Legation; the Italian Consul General G. P. Riva, Count Naselli, Commander de Liberdo, of the Royal cruiser Bansan and his officers, together with other prominent Italians will be present. The concert is given under the auspices of the Columbus Monument Executive Committee.

Members of the military order of the Loyal Legion will be accepted to the columbus the calderation will be sylum, to a Tribune reporter yesterday.

DELAY AT THE STATUE. thousand spectators filled the grand stand Fifty-ninth-st. and Eighth-ave yesterday aftersoon, expecting to see the tremendous granite thich is to stand the heroic statue of Christo-Columbus, lifted into position. They were pher Columbus, lifted into position. They were doomed to disappointment and only saw the granite base raised, on which is to rest the monster stone. It was found that the great crane which was to be used to raise the stone was defective, and would need to be strengthened before the tremendous stone, weighing twenty-seven tons and about twenty-six feet long, could be entrusted to it. It will be raised, it is said, this morning at 10 o'clock. G. P. Morosini, the well-known Wall Street man, said vesterday; "All this work, connected with the preparing and placing of these stones in position, fitting and cutting, is done by these poor Italians, entirely as a work of love; they receive not one penny of compensation, but even devote their sandays to this noble work. Where will you find any other nation that would do a thing like this?"

a thing like this?"

The he dequatters of the Sub-Committee on Invitations and Reception of the Committee of one Hundred were estatlish it vesterday in the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and there all invited guests who have not as yet received their tickets may obtain them by presenting proper credentials.

A doubt having been expressed as to whether lafayette Post, No. 140, G. A. R., of this city, will take part in the military parade on Wednesday, it is stated authorisatively that the post will turn out in tail force with a band and under escort of the celebrated 2d Durtee Zonaves.

Inil force with a band and under exort of the celebrated 2d Duryce Zonaves.

A large crowd of applicants for creeting stands to view the parade crowded the rooms of the Public Building Department yesterday, and Superlatendent Endy assert d that the public need have no fear that all precautions would not be taken to render these stands safe. All permits have to be obtained from him, and none are granted if the specifications required to be given are not what they should be. Furthermore, an extra large staff has been enlisted to supervise and test the safety of all stands, public and private, and where any stand is deemed to need strengthening, extra support is added, or the stand will not be allowed to specytions in this respect. No stand erected without a permit will be allowed to be occupied. Owners of houses are allowed to erect stands only within the stop-line limit, according to the laws, and no encreachment on the sidewalk proper will be allowed.

stand, and said that it had been placed there for the accommodation of Temmany bosses with a big pull. It was predicted that permit or no permit, the structure with its comparatively elegant accommodations would stay where it was until the celebration was over. Colonel Hain, General Manager of the Manhattan Elevated Railroad Company, said yesterlay that the road would be able to carry all the people who wanted to ride on it during the celebration. Five-car treins were being run now and would be run all through the celebration and continuously at the short intervals on which trains are now run during the runsh hours, and shorter if necessary. Longer trains could not be run because the terminals and stations would not permit the handling of them. Furthermore, the engines and structure were not built for heavier trains. No difficulty was expected, however, in handling the passengers. On the day of the Centennial military parade 867,000 massengers were carried on the elevated railroads. It was not expected that that number would be exceeded on the day of the military parade next week, and it was doubtful if it would be equalled. Colonel Hain has issued a general order to all the employes of the road in relation to the week, to which, after alinding to the great number of stransers who will probably be carried on the roads, he says:

"You have always bandled any unsual business presented to us in a safe and zealous manner, and I can only urge upon you a continuance of the viriliance which has heretofore been exerted, in order that our proud and unparalleled record may be kept free from any unfortunate occurrence that would reflect on officers and employes allke.

"Enginemen should a particularly careful in raunding curves and making proper stops at stations, as well as being ure to have the proper destination sign displayed in every instance, in order not to cause narm or inconvenience to the passengers or error in the monigulation of the trains.

"Trainmen should announce stations in the most distinct manner; make

PRESIDENT HARRISON'S MOVEMENTS. Secretary Wable, of the Committee of One Hundred, letter yesierday from General Horace Forter, saying that owing to the uncertainty attending President Harrison's attendance at the public dinner on Thursday night at the Lenox Lyceum, John W. Foster, Secretary of State, would reply to the tenst "The United States," and that if Mr. Harrison were not present, Vice-President Levi P. Morton would represent him. The President Levi P. Morton would be here in time to review the military parade on Wednesday, but may find it necessary to return to Washington on the same night.
